

UP TO TURKEY AS TO RESULT OF CONFABS

Peace Negotiations To Bepwypdwlu PEACE NEGOTIATIONS TO BE BROKEN OFF STATE BULGARIAN ENVOYS.

MAY RESUME FIGHTING

Adrianople is the Subject of Bitter Discussion of Pending Peace Plans.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] London, Jan. 2.—The peace negotiations between the Balkan and the Turkish envoys will be broken off according to Dr. Daneff, the chief of the Bulgarian delegation, unless the map which the Turkish delegation is now preparing showing the proposed boundary between Bulgaria and Turkey should prove to be in accordance with the terms laid down by the allies.

"The position of affairs has not changed so much for the better as people seem to imagine," said Dr. Daneff today. "It must be borne in mind that from the beginning Turkey has always said she would make certain concessions in Macedonia and Thrace and in parts of the province of Thracian. That is all right as far as it goes, but there remains the question of Adrianople."

"The future of Adrianople is one of the most vital points in the negotiations and so far as I can see no improvement of the situation in regard to it is to be expected, when the new map is drawn up by the Turkish delegation of the proposed rectification of the boundary between Bulgaria and Turkey."

Rehad Pasha, the leader of the Turkish plenipotentiaries was equally emphatic on the subject of Adrianople. In the course of an interview this morning he said:

"We have ceded Macedonia in a spirit of conciliation and with a great desire to avoid a renewal of the war. On two questions, however, we will not yield. We will give up neither Adrianople nor the islands in the Aegean sea."

LODGE FURNISHINGS MOVED AT MIDNIGHT

No. 90, Odd Fellows' Carry Equipment From Old Quarters to New Rooms on New Year's Eve.

Members of Janesville City Lodge No. 90, I. O. O. F., celebrated New Year's eve in a novel manner when, following the regular lodge session and an initiation ceremony in their old rooms in the Carle block, they formed a squad for the purpose of carrying their furnishings to the new quarters in the Phoebe block. As the whistles shrieked out the announcement of the new year's arrival the last chair and bench had been deposited in the new lodge rooms and the lodge will henceforth meet in their new home which has been elaborately remodeled and refitted for their purpose. The procession of men down Milwaukee street caused some excitement and caused many merry-makers to stop in consternation supposing that Janesville citizens had discovered some new way of bidding farewell to the old year. A number of spectators were disappointed when it was learned that there would be no bon-fire.

BUSHMEN TO JOIN IN GARMENT STRIKE

Workers Employed to Make Alterations in Garments Have Been Ordered to Join Garment Workers.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] New York, Jan. 2.—The United Garment Workers of America, on strike to the number of 90,000, for more pay and better working conditions, expect to add to their ranks within the next twenty-four hours approximately 7,000 bushmen employed in local department stores. The strike order to the bushmen workers employed to make alterations in ready-made garments is issued, the strike leaders declare, in an effort to reach the retail trade and bring the entire garment making industry within the scope of the situation.

Meantime three agencies, the State Board of Mediation and Arbitration, the Chamber of Commerce, and the International Peace Forum, are endeavoring to bring about an adjustment of the differences between the strikers and their employers.

WILSON WILL WEAR SYMBOL OF SERVICE

Stick Pin Bearing Coat of Arms of United States Being Made for President-Elect.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Princeton, N. J., Jan. 2.—When Woodrow Wilson becomes president of the United States the little gold scarf pin he has been wearing for years will attain the end of its evolution.

When Governor Wilson was president of Princeton University his stick pin was a miniature of Princeton, seal, the coat of arms of William of Orange, Duke of Nassau. When he became governor, New Jersey's coat of arms displaced it; to wear while he is president, Governor Wilson is having made a stick pin with a spread eagle and an American shield, the national coat of arms.

"I never liked ostentatious display," he said, "but such a little pin as I have been wearing as governor of the state is unbecoming and I like to feel that I have constantly with me something that is a symbol of my service."

GENERAL ELECTION IN ENGLAND SOON

Possibility of Early Election Discussed Following Premier's Question to Unionists.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] London, Jan. 2.—The possibility of an early general election in the United Kingdom is widely spoken of today as a result of Premier Asquith's pointed question to the unionists in the house of commons yesterday when he asked them to declare clearly what would be their attitude if the home rule bill was submitted to the electorate and approved.

The reply of Andrew Bonar Law, the leader of the opposition, that in that case the conservative party would not encourage the Ulsterites to resist the measure, is regarded as significant.

DYNAMITERS SPEND LONG FIRST NIGHT IN FT. LEAVENWORTH

Thirty-three Convicted Men Are Numbered and Measured and Are Ready to Begin Prison Duties.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Leavenworth, Kan., Jan. 2.—Their berrillon measurements taken and their assignments to prison work having been given today, the thirty-three union-men convicted as dynamite conspirators entered the routine of prisoners at the federal penitentiary here. Their names are held in the warden's office, but about the prison the thirty-three are designated by a column of figures in a list with more than 1,900 other prisoners.

Those of them who were able to sleep were awakened from their first night in the cell by the sounding of reveille which echoed through the stone and steel bound shell house at 6:30 a. m. Excepting Herbert S. Hockin, former secretary of the iron workers' union, who has been labelled the betrayer of his fellows, the men bunked two in a cell on "double decked" beds.

The cells, like all those accorded new prisoners, were bare in marked contrast to those of the old inmates who nearly all have covered their walls with pictures from magazines, postal cards and souvenirs.

With the first shock of meeting with actual prison life, passed all of the men as they joined the other 1,200 in the march to the dining room for breakfast at 7:25 showed more fortitude than yesterday.

After breakfast the men were called upon one by one examined and questioned as to their fitness for the different lines of work about the prison.

MAY USE FORCE TO GET ROCKEFELLER

Army of House Sergeant-at-Arms Baffled Thus Far to Subpoena Oil King.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] New York, Jan. 2.—Baffled in their attempt to serve William Rockefeller with a subpoena requiring him to testify before the Pujo committee investigating the so-called money trust, forty deputy sergeants-at-arms of the house of representatives and private detective awaited today word from Washington that they might enter Mr. Rockefeller's Fifth avenue mansion by force if necessary and serve him there. The heavy guard which has surrounded the oil millionaire's home on the streets and house tops during the past few days has not diminished today. Every possible exit is under guard.

Charles P. Riddell, sergeant-at-arms of the house in charge of the squad of process servers, said he felt sure Mr. Rockefeller was within.

Mr. Rockefeller's brother, John D. Rockefeller, drove up to the house in a touring car during the forenoon and stopped for a moment at the curb opposite the entrance but he did not alight. Just as Mr. Rockefeller was about to get out of his machine a newspaper reporter recognized him and stepped forward to greet him. Mr. Rockefeller turned to the chauffeur quickly and the car shot away before the door had been opened.

Talk Over Plans. Washington, Jan. 2.—House officials today were inclined to the view that the best procedure to adopt in the effort to reach William Rockefeller with a subpoena for the Pujo committee would be to have the judiciary committee immediately report and the house adopt a resolution instructing an attachment to be served upon the financier. Jerry Smith, chief clerk of the house conferred today with a number of the house leaders on the subject.

TO ARGUE FOR WRIT IN A HIGHER COURT

JUDGE ANDERSON GRANTS REQUEST FOR WRIT OF ERROR IN DYNAMITE CASE.

MAY MEAN NEW TRIAL

Request for Supersedeas Writ Will Be Taken to United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Indianapolis, Jan. 2.—After attorneys for the thirty-three convicted dynamite conspirators had withdrawn their applications for a writ of supersedeas, Federal Judge A. B. Anderson today granted their prayer for a writ of error. During the hearing V. M. Harding announced that Herbert S. Hockin would not ask an appeal in his case.

The hearing was brief. The granting of the writ of error means that the request for a supersedeas writ will be taken to the United States circuit court of appeals or one of the judges of the court.

Chester H. Krum of St. Louis was spokesman for the defense counsel. Judge Anderson granted his request to strike out of the petition the prayer for a writ of supersedeas and allowed the writ of error.

United States District Attorney Charles W. Miller said he was ready to appear with the defense's counsel before any court or judge, at any time to argue the application for a writ of supersedeas. Mr. Krum declared Mr. Miller would be notified as soon as the judge and the time had been decided upon.

TELLS OF CONDITION EXISTING IN TURKEY

DR. CALEB F. YATES OF ROBERT COLLEGE, CONSTANTINOPLE, GIVES A STATEMENT.

ARMY IS UNORGANIZED

Turkish Military Department Utterly Lacking in Control and Organization—Interesting Details.

New York, Jan. 2.—Scenes in and about Constantinople, and conditions resulting from the Balkan war are interestingly described in a letter addressed to The Associated Press by Dr. Caleb F. Yates, president of Robert College at the Turkish capital. The letter follows:

This has been a war of surprises to most people. The Turks themselves were among the most surprised. They had expended some forty-two million pounds upon their army. They supposed that whatever else they had not done they had at least prepared an army, but that army has failed them.

The principal reason seems to be lack of organization. The officers of the army were not in touch with their men. The Committee of Union and Progress had gotten rid of the old officers, who had risen from the ranks and who knew their men, and substituted officers trained in the military schools of Turkey and Europe. Unfortunately these officers have been devoting too much time to politics and too little time to their work with the army. So they did not adequately know their men.

Turkey at the opening of the war strained every nerve to bring her soldiers to the front. They came in by ships which passed down the Bosphorus every day, the soldiers cheering and the bands playing. The soldiers were put into cars and sent to the front, often without their officers. When they arrived at the station where they were to leave the railroad officers were in waiting who took them and placed them in their companies. All corps and division formation was lost. It was confusion. These soldiers went to the battle under bad conditions. They needed a month at least to train with their (Continued on page 6.)

Get The Best Out of Life

Not so very many years ago each family supplied its own clothing, grew their own food supplies, and built their own simple furniture.

Through differences in ability some people could make certain articles better than any one else. Gradually they made more and more of these goods and exchanged them for other needed things. But they could sell only to those within easy reach, because transportation facilities were limited.

Nowadays your clothing may come from the north your hats from the east your foods from the south, and your furniture from the west. The makers of these things must find you, the man or woman who needs their product. The means they take to bring their goods before you is advertising.

Advertising solves what professors call "the problems of commodity distribution." By means of it you buy the newest, best and most useful things made in the world.

It is to your advantage, therefore, to read the advertisements in THE GAZETTE. That is one certain way to get the best out of life in the way of new comforts, luxuries, and necessities of an advancing civilization. (Copyrighted 1912, by J. T. Fallon)

TIBETANS MASSACRE TROOP OF CHINESE

Three Hundred Chinese Soldiers Surprised and Killed Last Night.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Chengtu Province, of See-Shuen, China, Jan. 2.—Three hundred Chinese soldiers were killed by a force of Tibetans near Hsiling Cheng on the borders of Tibet, during a night attack last night. The Chinese troops also lost six machine guns.

The official reason given for the defeat of the regular troops is that soldiers refuse to trust their commanders knowledge of the country and became insubordinate. During the confusion which ensued the Tibetans seized the opportunity of attacking the column which was totally defeated.

PLAN TO PROSECUTE VIOLATORS OF LAW

Leaders of Reform Organizations in Chicago Met Today to Discuss Reports of New Year's Eve Orgies.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Chicago, Jan. 2.—A large number of reports of New Year's eve orgies were ready today for presentation to a meeting of leaders of reform organizations here this afternoon. Some of the reports are illustrated by flashlight photographs. Arthur Burridge Farrell stated that prosecutions would be instituted against a number of cafes which remained open after the legal closing hour at 1:00 a. m.

In Frisco. San Francisco, Jan. 2.—Charles W. Clark, the millionaire son of the Montana copper king, led a motor car tour of the streets for several hours New Year's eve and then decided to give a dance. Going to one of the big cafes, Clark requested the use of the ball room.

"I'm sorry, Mr. Clark," said the manager, "but it would cost you $1,000."

"Well, I guess we'll take it," said Clark, drawing his check book from his pocket. The cafe man fumbled the check a moment, then ordered the room cleared and Clark and his guests waltzed and "Texas Tombed" for three hours.

PROJECTS PLANS FOR GOVERNMENT ON ZONE

PRESIDENT BEGINS SERIES OF DEBATES ON PLANS FOR FUTURE GOVERNMENT.

PHILIPPINES' PROBLEM

Report That Revolution is Being Financed to Overthrow Present Government.

Washington, Jan. 2.—A program crowded with important work for every remaining day of the session was before the senate and house today when they reconvened after the holiday recess of two weeks. While spread publicity given to the proposed farewell speech of Senator Joseph W. Bailey, of Texas, made the senate the center of attention and turned crowds of people in the direction of the galleries before the noon hour.

President Taft today nominated Fenton W. Booth, of Illinois now justice of the court of claims to be chief justice of that court succeeding Stanton J. Peebe, and Henry Sherman Boutell, of Illinois to be a justice of that court, succeeding Booth. Mr. Boutell is now minister to Switzerland.

President Taft today began a series of talks with senators on his proposed executive order establishing civil government for the Panama canal zone, with Col. Goethals the canal builder at its head. The president asked several senators to advise him of the truth of the report that the democrats would oppose the nomination of the colonel. Mr. Taft is anxious to see the civil government authorized under the Panama canal act established before he leaves March 4th, to allow the new governor to readjust finances before Mr. Wilson enters the White House.

The president, his friends say, emphatically is unwilling to become involved in a political wrangle over the canal. The senate, however, must confirm the nomination of a civil government. Mr. Taft has been disappointed by reports that the nominations of Col. Goethals would be opposed. He told callers today that he believed the American people would like to see Col. Goethals made governor.

President Taft after hearing reports from advisors who had canvassed the opinion of democratic senators is said to have determined to abandon his plan of setting up the new civil government at Panama with Col. Goethals at its head and leave the work for President-elect Wilson. A plan to extend the civil service to all employees on the canal zone is being considered.

President Taft will leave Washington at midnight tomorrow to attend the funeral in New York of Whitlaw Reid, late ambassador of the United States to Great Britain. Saturday morning, Secretary Knox will accompany the president. James Bryce the British ambassador will attend the funeral services, but probably will leave Washington for New York on an earlier train. Col. Lowther, military aide to the governor general of Canada will represent the governor.

Officials of the insular bureau denied today a report that they had discovered a revolutionary plot in the Philippines to be backed by large business interests. Alarmed at the prospects of the United States relinquishing the island, a bill is now pending in the house to give immediate autonomy and independence in eight years. Brigadier General McIntyre chief of the insular bureau, characterized the report as "pure fiction". Army officers, however, while discrediting the idea of any organized revolutionary plot say there is considerable agitation among business interests on the islands.

The greatest crowd that has besieged senate galleries since the opening of this session of congress overflowed into hallways and corridors of the capital today in anticipation of Senator Bailey's farewell speech. It dealt principally with the principle of the initiative and referendum, and he directed his words toward his resolution declaring that such a "system" of direct legislation as the initiative and referendum would establish in conflict with the representative principle on which the republic is founded.

Immediate recognition of the new Chinese republic by the United States was asked in a resolution today by Senator Bacon, a member of the foreign affairs committee. To aid sufferers of pulmonary tuberculosis in the United States by newly reported discoveries in Germany for the cure of the disease, Senator Gore today introduced a resolution calling upon the president to send to congress any information on the subject gathered by the consular officers in Germany.

ALLIES MAKE HUGE DEMANDS ON TURKEY BUT DO NOT EXPECT ALL TO BE GRANTED

The Balkan allies have demanded practically all of European Turkey, including the islands of the Aegean sea, leaving the Turks only Constantinople and a little territory surrounding the city. The Turks declare they will resume the war before giving up so much of their territory. It is likely that the Balkan states will recede considerably from the demands they have made, and that satisfactory terms will be made before the London conference adjourns.

Attorney John L. Fisher presented at the last meeting of the council the claim of Fred Schumaker, who states that he was injured last November as the result of being tripped by a rope stretched across the sidewalk at the new Mercy hospital. Mr. Schumaker asks $500 damages. The opinion was expressed by members of the council that the claim did not properly devolve upon the city, but rather upon the Union Construction company, who, it is alleged, caused the rope to be stretched across the walk. The claim was laid aside pending investigation. The bond of George W. Muenchow, city treasurer, was accepted and placed on file.

Posted Early Owing to Popularity of Winniger Company.

Two capacity houses greeted Frank Winniger and his company at the Myers Theatre yesterday afternoon and evening. The matinee bill was a repetition of Monday's play, and was heartily received by an appreciative audience. In "Our Village President," the offering of last night, Mr. Winniger was in his element, at least the element in which Janesville people like him best. "Our Village President" is a comedy drama in three acts and unlike most plays all of the parts are characters but two. Tonight a double bill will be presented, "John, the Janitor," a dramatic comedy in three acts and a burlesque written by Mr. Frank Winniger entitled "The $1,000 Statue."

MORE RECALL PAPERS ARE BEING PREPARED

Plans Have Not Been Fully Decided for the Campaign That Will Follow.

It is understood that the supporters of the recall movement are having prepared new papers ready for signatures demanding a recall of the present city officials. Attorney Clancy of Sprohston, who was retained by the gentlemen most interested in the proposition, it is understood has given an opinion after carefully going over the matter, and that the steering committee of twelve will take this matter up at a meeting to be held within the next day or two. It is current talk that the present petitions will be abandoned as not complying with the law and new ones drawn up that will comply with all the requirements. Whether one or all of the city officials will be named in the coming petition is not yet decided.

GEORGIA GOVERNOR APPEARED AT BLEASE

Gov. Joseph P. Brown.

Gov. Joseph P. Brown of Georgia is considerably worked up over the action of Gov. Cole Blaise of South Carolina, in releasing many criminals on the understanding that they shall leave the state. Brown is making an investigation to determine whether the state of Georgia can prevent exiled, undesirable citizens of South Carolina from getting down in his state.

"I do not know," said Gov. Brown recently, "whether anything can be done, but it is my opinion that nothing can be done so long as any of the convicts who may move to this state conduct themselves in an honorable and upright manner and maintain a standard of good citizenship."

BALLPLAYERS BUM ACTORS, SAYS HUGH

Hugh Jennings.

Manager Hugh Jennings of the Detroit Tigers, who in the winter time is a thespian, recently expressed a decided opinion that all ballplayers are duffers as actors. He insists that he is one himself, and insists that all other diamond stars are in his class when on the stage, but they get the money on their reputations as diamond stars.

LAXATIVE FOR OLD PEOPLE—"CASCARETTES"

What Glasses are to Weak Eyes, Cas-carets are to Weak Bowels—a 10-Cent Box Will Truly Amaze
You.

Most old people must give to the bowels some regular help, else they suffer from constipation. The condition is perfectly natural. It is just as natural as it is for old people to walk slowly. For age is never so active as youth. The muscles are less elastic. And the bowels are muscles. So all old people need Cascarets. One might as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglect this gentle aid to weak bowels. The bowels must be kept active. This is important at all ages, but never so much as at fifty.

Age is not a time for harsh physics. Youth may occasionally whip the bowels into activity. But a lash can't be used every day. What the bowels of the old need is a gentle and natural tonic. One that can be constantly used without harm. The only such tonic is Cascarets and they cost only 10 cents per box at any drug store. They work while you sleep.

Art Shafer, New York Giants' infielder, says he is through with big league baseball for all time. "My baseball career is ended," he remarked recently, "except as I can play the game without interfering with my business in Los Angeles." When asked if he had notified his manager of his intentions to retire, Shafer said he had not, and he would not.

The new manager of the Cincinnati Reds says that if he can get a new catcher, a new outfielder and one or two good pitchers he will be well on the way to the 1913 National league championship. Very likely. That's about all any of the big league teams lack to make themselves dangerous. If the Boston, St. Louis, and Brooklyn teams could each be given a pitcher who could be able to win 675 per cent of the games you would see the National league so close that nobody would care to venture a prediction as to which team would win the pennant.

Manager Mike Kelley of Indianapolis is said to have hope of landing Beals Becker from the New York Giants. The St. Louis Cardinals could use Becker, but Manager Higgins might pass him up to aid his friend Kelley.

The melancholy fate of Gene Krapp is another reminder of the uncertainty of baseball. In 1911 Krapp led the Cleveland daps with the highest prospects of a brilliant big league career. As a hurler on the Portland (Ore.) team he had made a brilliant record, in 1910, winning 29 games and losing 16. He is now in Cleveland in 1911 was not up to expectations, though on occasions he did brilliantly. In 1912 he fell down completely. He has now gone back to Portland as no big league club cares for his services.

Eddie Cicotte, member of the Boston Red Sox and now associated with the Chicago White Sox, received a present from his former teammates in Boston while the world's series was in progress. The present was in the shape of a handsome and costly piece of jewelry. Now listen to this outburst which Cicotte recently made to a Detroit scribe:

"There is all the difference possible between the Chicago and Boston clubs. The Chicago team is a unit, while the Boston team is composed of Carrigan and Speaker. In Chicago they encourage you; in Boston they criticize you. The Red Sox work for personal glory; one for his fielding average and another for his batting average and another for his pitching average. They are lucky champs."

Teacher kind sentiments, eh? Rather grateful is Eddie—M.

Zbyszko, the Polish wrestler who is now touring this country, looks like the best active wrestler in the game today. Frank Gotch who is regarded as champion, refuses to meet the Pole, and therefore gives the latter the chance to proclaim himself champion if he defeats all the other first raters on this side of the water. Zbyszko is the champion wrestler of Europe.

Ty Cobb, whose opinion as the world's greatest ball player should be weighty, says Connie Mack's Athletics will win the pennant next year. "The Athletics didn't win the pennant last season," admits Ty, "but I still believe it is the best team in the country."

Manager Hugh Jennings of the Detroit Tigers does not envy the job of Joe Tinker, new manager of the Cincinnati Reds. "The team owners are influenced from outside sources and a hide as thick as a crowd's when a slip is made," says Jennings. Hugh says there is only one condition upon which he would become manager of the Cincinnati team: An irrevocable contract stipulating that he would have sole charge of the team all the time.

Jack Denning, the New York middleweight who was recently defeated by Tommy Garigan, says the Cleveland can beat Mike Gibbons. "I don't consider it any disgrace to be beat by a man of Tommy Garigan's caliber," says Denning. "I have met all the good ones, and he is the first to hand to me in such a decisive way. He is the hardest-hitting middleweight in the country, barring none, and he can take another fellow's blows without noticing them. If he ever gets matched with Gibbons I will bet a few hundred on Tommy."

Glenn Coakley, the Fort Wayne middleweight, is probably the biggest fighter for his weight since Bob Fitzsimmons' time. He stands five feet eleven and a half inches in his gym shoes, has an extra length of reach, plenty of the right sort of muscle, and can hit some. It will not surprise the wise ones if Coakley develops and is heard from in select middleweight society in the not-far-distant future.

Sam Johnson, president of the American league, says he will judge pitchers now on according to the number of hits made off their deliveries and rate them accordingly. He will abolish the "won" and "lost" columns from the pitching records. Under the new method the pitcher will get credit for his own good work and not for that of his teammates. It is a welcome change.

Poger Brasnahan, formerly manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, deserves a gold medal. He has refused an offer of $1,000 a week to go on the vaudeville stage, declaring he is not an actor. If all baseball men had Poger's conscience there would be a pretty few of them on the stage today.

Tommy Murphy, once a prominent candidate for the lightweight championship, is in a Denver hospital and may never fight again. He is suffering from a mental and physical breakdown.

Johnny Kling, late manager of the Boston Braves, is through forever as a major leaver, but he is open to engagements in the minors. The former star Cub catcher knows that if he remains in the big leagues he will be only a toiler in the ranks, whereas he can probably land a job as manager in the minors.

At Palzer Takes Severe Drubbing in 18-round Battle at Los Angeles.—Burns Badly Beaten. [Special to the Gazette.]

Los Angeles, Jan. 2.—Luther McCarty's victory over Al Palzer in the heavyweight match here, yesterday was decisive. When Referee Elyton stopped it at the eighteenth round and declared McCarty the champion the fans at the ringside were quite satisfied that the sturdy New Yorker had been out-classed, out-boxed and really slugged off his feet. In spite of the fact that everything went McCarty's way after the third round, it was a fast battle and an exceedingly interesting one to watch. McCarty's clever work was at all times in evidence and his speed and headwork were too much for Palzer who, however, showed marvelous staying power and ability to withstand punishment.

BELOIT COMUS CLUB DEFEATS CARDINALS

Janesville Five at Disadvantage on Small Floor—Return Game Scheduled for January 10.

Playing at a disadvantage on the small floor of the Beloit Y. M. C. A. gymnasium, the Beloit Cardinals lost their basketball game to the Comus club five yesterday by the score of 23 to 11. Ed. Garrity, the fast Beloit guard, was the star of the game and secured ten of the points for the Beloit team. The game was rather rough and was more strenuous than the locals are accustomed to as it was played under intercollegiate rules. The Cardinals hope to make a better showing when the return game is played at the auditorium on January 10, under more favorable conditions. The teams lined up as follows: Beloit: Bird and Berger, forwards; Prindle, center; and E. Garrity and T. Garrity, guards.

Cardinals: Cunningham, Spencer, Wilkinson, center; Langdon and Booth, guards. Scores: Bird, 2; Prindle, 4; 12. Garrity, 5; Wilkinson, 2; Spooner, 1; Langdon, 1. Free throws: Cunningham, 2; Langdon, 1.

Heart to Heart Talks

By JAMES A. EDGERTON

IT CAN BE DONE.

In the McAuley mission, New York, Reuben Johnson, eighty-three years old, gave his testimony. He said that up to the age of seventy-two his life had been "just one sorrow after another." Then he had entered the mission, but quit drinking and now would not touch a drop of liquor.

Another man—he called him "Brother White"—offered his testimony at about the same time in a Salvation Army meeting. He was of a good family, had held a government position, had resigned this and gone into business for himself, making thousands of dollars, and had a pleasant home blessed by a beautiful wife and child. Then he took to drink and got so low that his relatives and friends shunned him. He struck his wife and she left him. He got into jail. He lost everything. He was on his way to jump into the river when, passing a Salvation Army barracks, he went in, turned over a new leaf and stopped drink. Now he holds a responsible position, again has his home and family and is received by his relatives and friends. It can be done.

The writer knows a similar case. The man was a lawyer, but became a drunkard and was down and out. In his case Christian Science was the rescue bark. For years he has not touched a drop, is again a successful lawyer and a man among men. It can be done.

There are thousands of similar cases all over the land. Sometimes it has been one influence that worked the change, sometimes another. The means are not so important as the end. The fact is that these men, with the help of some outside agency, have reformed and saved themselves. It can be done.

How often have we heard men say that they could not overcome a particular habit, whether it was drinking, drugs or some other weakness that injured their mind and body. Bosh! Any man can quit anything on which he sets his will. Man is not a slave, but a master. If he doesn't quit it is because he doesn't really want to quit. Then some agency from outside must change the direction of his desire. But if he actually wishes to be rid of the old weakness and to make his life better—it can be done.

Marking Arrival of Age. When I get to be old I ain't going to find it out by countin' up to see, nor by my whiskers, nor by my gums, nor none of them signs. They'll all fool you. No, sir! But one of these times I'll get throwed down, and I won't bounce back. Then I'll know it's all over. When a man gets that way, he's old. Old, see? It don't make any difference how much longer he lives after that, he don't ever get any older.—"Billy Fortune."

Kitchen Eraser. An ordinary blackboard eraser is splendid to keep near the kitchen range. By using it to wipe off the top, the range is kept clean and does not need to be washed or polished but once or twice a week. These erasers can be purchased at a very small cost.—Mother's Magazine.

Important Question. It is idle to frame such a query as "Can the cook be a lady?" The real question is now and ever will be: "Can the lady cook?"—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Could Thank For Joy. "I want to thank you from the bottom of my heart," wrote C. B. Rader, of Lewisburg, W. Va., "for the wonderful double benefit I got from Electric Bitters, in curing me of both a severe case of stomach trouble and of rheumatism, from which I had been an almost helpless sufferer for ten years. It suited my case as though made just for me." For dyspepsia, indigestion, jaundice, and to rid the system of kidney poisons that cause rheumatism, Electric Bitters have no equal. Try them. LOCAL FIVE DEFEATS COLLEGE ALL-STARS

Janesville Maroons Win Game at Milton Yesterday Afternoon—Mott Fractures Shoulder.

The fast traveling basketball team from this city journeyed to Milton yesterday and defeated the College All-Stars from that place by the score of 26 to 20. Playing fast and under the intercollegiate rules, and the local Maroons seemed lost at times, but by steady playing turned out victors. In the first half, Mott fractured his shoulder and J. Reger replaced him at guard in the second half. The clever work of Mott at dribbling and shooting was the feature of the game. Here it must be mentioned that Bradley, who purchased a sweater of the "Bruisers" make, played a great game at forward. His sperrition was the cause, he thought, of his good showing. The rest of the team played a good game, especially Cunningham at center. The line-up was as follows: Milton—West and Crandall; forwards; Pierce, center; White and Johnson, guards. Maroons—Myer and Bradley, forwards; Cunningham, center; Mott, J. Reger and French, guards.

THE NEW FREEDOM.

The following paragraph is from the pen of President-elect Woodrow Wilson, contained in an article which appears in the January "World's Work." The Gazette reproduces them, as they are of general interest, because they express the sentiment of the new chief executive, and will doubtless influence the policy of the next administration.

They read well, as does everything which Governor Wilson writes, but many suggestions offered are: rhetorical—the product of high ideals—and while consoling to the masses, and the men in business, who feel that they are the under-dog in the fight, the author fails to recognize the law which governs, known as "the survival of the fittest."

This universal law is as destitute of sympathy as an orator is of sensibility, but there is no sympathy in business, and all efforts to inspire it by law, have been failures, and will continue to be.

When new machinery comes in, and drives out an army of workmen, the men naturally feel that they have a grievance, but no sympathy is enlisted.

When lines of business are wiped out by competitors, as has been the case with the shoe-maker, the harness-maker and several other small industries, the handful of men who suffer are the only ones to complain.

The mail order catalogue finds a place on the center table, and the country merchant, across the street, be he ever so good a neighbor, is neglected, and finally fails, because there is no sentiment in business.

Concentration is the watchword of the day, because the people demand it, and capital always responds to the voice of popular demand. Back of the capital must be the brain to execute, and a strong combination is always found at the front, where it belongs, and no law can relegate it to the rear, except a law which weakens confidence and destroys business.

The academic mind has much to do with theories. Some of these theories are practical, but many of them are too fine-spun for service. The president-to-be is a thoroughly good man and his sincerity is not doubted, but he has much to learn in the school of practical experience. The paragraphs referred to follow:

"What this country needs above everything else is a body of laws which will look after the men who are on the make rather than the men who are already made. Because the men who are already made are not going to live indefinitely and they are not always kind enough to leave sons as able and as honest as they are."

"The treasury of America does not lie in the brains of the small body of men now in control of the great enterprises that have been concentrated under the direction of a very small number of persons. The treasury of America lies in those ambitions, those energies, that cannot be restricted to a special favored class."

"We used to say that the ideal of government was for every man to be left alone and not interfered with, except when he interfered with somebody else; and that the best government was the government that did as little governing as possible. That was the idea that obtained in Jefferson's time. But we are coming now to realize that life is so complicated that we are dealing with the old conditions, and that the law has to step in and create the conditions under which we live, the conditions which will make it tolerable for us to live."

"A corporation is very like a large tenement house: it isn't the premises of a single commercial family; it is just as much a public affair as a great tenement is a network of public highways."

"Our government has been for the past few years under the control of heads of great allied corporations with special interests. It has not controlled these interests and assigned them a proper place in the whole system of business; it has submitted itself to their control. As a result, there have grown up vicious systems and schemes of governmental favoritism (the most obvious being the extravagant tariff), far-reaching in effect upon the whole fabric of life, touching to his injury every inhabitant of the land, laying unfair and impossible handicaps upon competitors, stifling everywhere the free spirit of American enterprise."

"We are in a temper to reconstruct economic society, as we were once in a temper to reconstruct political society, and political society may itself undergo a radical modification in the process. I doubt if any age was ever more conscious of its task or more unanimously desirous of radical and extended changes in its economic and political practice."

"Some radical changes we must make in our law and practice. Some reconstructions we must push forward, which a new age and new circumstances impose upon us. But we can do it all in calm and sober fashion, like statesmen and patriots."

"So that when courts hold that workmen can not peaceably disassemble other workmen from taking employment, and base the decision upon the analogy of domestic servants, they simply show that their minds and understandings are lingering in an age which has passed away."

"So what we had to discuss is not wrong which individuals intentionally do—for I do not believe there are a great many of those—but the wrongs of the system. I want to record my protest against any discussion of this matter which would seem to indicate that there are bodies of our fellow-citizens who are trying to grind us down and do us injustice."

There are some men of that sort. I don't know how they sleep at night, but there are men of that kind. Thank God, they are not numerous. The truth is, we are all caught in a great economic system which is heartless."

"When I hear judges reason upon the analogy of the relationships that used to exist between workmen and their employers a generation ago, I wonder if they have not opened their eyes to the modern world. You know, we have a right to expect that judges will have their eyes open, even though the law which they administer hasn't awakened."

"Since I entered politics, I have chiefly had men's views confided to me privately. Some of the biggest men in the United States, in the field of commerce and manufacture, are afraid of somebody, are afraid of something. They know that there is a power somewhere so organized, so subtle, so watchful, so interlocked, so complete, so pervasive, that they had better not speak above their breath when they speak in condemnation of it."

"American industry is not free, as once it was free: American enterprise is not free; the man with only a little capital is finding it harder to get into the field, more and more impossible to compete with the big fellow. Why? Because the laws of this country do not prevent the strong from crushing the weak. That is the reason, and because the strong have crushed the weak the strong dominate the industry and the economic life of this country."

"There is a great deal that needs reconstruction in the United States. I should like to take a census of the business men—I mean the rank and file of the business men—as to whether they think that business conditions in this country, or rather whether the organizations of business in this country, is satisfactory or not. I know what they would say if they dared. If they could vote secretly they would vote overwhelmingly that the present organization of business was meant for big fellows and was not meant for the little fellows."

HIGH RURAL INTEREST RATES.

"It is figured that, counting commissions and renewal charges, the 12,000,000 farmers of the United States pay $510,000,000 of interest on borrowed capital at the rate of 8 1/2 per cent a year. This is because each farmer insists on going it alone rather than working with his neighbor under the form of a co-operative credit system, such as enables the German farmer to borrow at 4 1/2 per cent or less and the French farmer to do even better than that. Farm loans at 4 1/2 per cent would make it much easier to get people to stay on the land or even go back to it, especially if the loan could be liquidated by a series of payments covering a period of twenty years. Some middle western states are doing this now and are entirely satisfied with the results."

This paragraph, from a financial journal, suggests that there is easy money for the farmer when a way is discovered to reach him, but the middle west farmer has long been able to secure money at a low interest rate. The risk is greater in the western states, and that is why rates are higher. Co-operative banking may be all right for a new country, but is hardly needed where farm land is worth from $50 to $200 per acre."

That the nation is badly flustered with socialism is indicated by the vote for the socialist party, at the November election, nearly one million, or double what it was four years ago. Many of the doctrines of modern reform are the seeds of socialism, and both the republican and democratic parties are flustered with these doctrines, while the progressive party platform is so thoroughly in accord that socialistic leaders are ready to adopt it and support the Colonel in the next campaign. The country has gone daffy, on some propositions, because of an overdose of prosperity."

The same trains that carry the parcels post will carry express packages, and competition promises to be lively. In the meantime the people will profit by lower rates than they have ever enjoyed. But little sympathy is expressed for the express companies, as the notion prevails that many rates have been extortionate. They have furnished good service, however, and if the government duplicates it, somebody will be obliged to foot the bills, and in the final analysis the ultimate consumer always pays the freight."

The disgraceful New Year's eve revel in Chicago, surpassed anything in the way of debauchery that the city ever experienced. The police were powerless, as the mayor countenanced the revel, and encouraged it by a proclamation issued a week in advance. Under such influences, New Year resolutions find but little encouragement. It is not surprising that the Windy City is noted for crime and lawlessness.

SPUR OF THE MOMENT

Our Choice.
 Oh, Mr. Wilson, if you please,
 While you are settin' at your ease
 And makin' up your mind just what you're goin' to give to me;
 If it is all the same to you
 I'd like to go to Timbuctoo
 As minister; it is the swellest job

The man who goes to Timbuctoo
 Has got a sincere clear through.
 He doesn't have to worry o'er the articles of dress;
 An old plug hat is all he needs
 And then, perhaps, a string of beads.
 The rest of his apparel he can simply guess.

He is one of the howling swells;
 The man who goes to Timbuctoo
 Stand round about him: each not day and wave their gorgeous fans;
 They think because a feller white
 That he is simply out of sight;
 He has a thousand worshippers in varied browns and tans.

The life out there is simply grand;
 A feller just sits in the sand
 And watches the graceful seagull
 in his native habitat.
 The natives come and make salaam
 And bow there heads to Uncle Sam.
 I never will be happy until I get a job like that.

A feller kin just lie and dream,
 Far from the haunts of hurriedness
 steam;
 You do not have to toil away like any common job.
 It seems to suit me through and through.
 There's not a bit of work to do.
 And that's why, Mr. Wilson, I prefer that sort of job.

Signs.
 When the house starts a dice game
 it is a sign that the house doesn't expect to lose anything on it.
 When a man lives on a corner lot it is a sign that he is going to have a lot of snow to shovel.

When a man suddenly cultivates
 a new line of profanity it is a sign that he is running his own furnace.
 When a wife starts in early in the morning to pay her husband compliments it is a sign that she will be at his office in the afternoon in search of a check.

When a man continually hoists his right foot, and feels around with it absently, it is a sign that he has been frequenting places where there are long brass rails about a foot from the floor.

A Winter Tragedy.
 A muffled figure softly stole
 On hands and knees into a hole
 As dark as night. The way was rough
 With coal and cans and other stuff.
 The place was clammy, damp and chill.

As in a dungeon, all was still
 Excepting for the labored wheeze
 Of the explorer on his knees.
 Who sought a mystery to clear.
 In this deep, ghostly cavern drear.
 A candle shed its trembling rays,
 Distorting objects forty ways.

The grim explorer, o'er the trail
 With trembling limbs and features
 aple,
 Pressed ever on, to be the first
 One of his kin to know the worst.
 Before him haunting fears did loom
 That he was near financial doom.
 He took a timely mental brace
 And searched about him place to place
 Until a pipe burst on his view.
 He found his sad suspicions true
 He lost his moral courage the moment
 And madly screamed, "Friz up again."

MAJESTIC THEATER Blanche Walsh in "RESURRECTION"

On Tuesday afternoon and evening, Jan. 7, the superb pictures of Tolstoy's immortal drama, just as played on Broadway, New York, for over a year will be shown again. On account of the length of the film, we may not be able to accommodate everybody in the evening; if possible, come in the afternoon, at half past two or a quarter to four.

Device to Frighten Baboons.
 A novel method of trying to get rid of the baboon nuisance in the Graaf-reinet district, Cape Colony, was recently put into operation by a farmer. This man conceived the idea of getting rid of the nuisance by capturing a full-grown male baboon, dressing him in all the colors of the rainbow, putting a sheep-bell round his neck, and turning him loose to join the troop to which he belongs. The farmer believes that by so doing there will be no baboons seen in his neighborhood for a good many years.

Arrested at Child's Grave.
 A pathetic scene took place at a Geneva cemetery the other day, when a French couple, who had been expelled from the town, were arrested as they were attending the burial of their only child. While the priest was reading the burial service, the detectives informed them that they would be conducted to prison, but they were allowed to remain until the end of the ceremony.

Tidal Wave Flooded Graveyard.
 Terrible scenes were recently witnessed at the little seaside village of Premia del Mar, Spain. The recent torrential rainfall has destroyed the churchyard, washing 150 corpses into the sea. Twenty coffins floating in the sea were saved by fishermen of the village.

Town Crier Has Fertile Mind.
 The town crier of Folkestone, England, has found a novel way of solving a difficulty arising in a quarrel with the lord who owns the town. The lord forbade the shouting of the crier on the beach, and the crier, who loves his profession, bought a boat and a megaphone, and now shouts his announcements from the crest of the waves to the assembled people on the beach.

 One day a college professor, going to his class, came across one of his students who had just fallen down. Asking him how he fell, the student replied, "Notwithstanding." Telling the anecdote a short time later the professor said: "I met Mr. Junior the other day, and he made a very bright remark. He had just fallen down, you know; and, when I asked him how it happened, he said, 'Nevertheless.'"—Budget.

DEATH STRIKES SON AND MOTHER WITHIN TWELVE HOURS TIME

Mrs. Jennie Rourke and Son, Louis
Rourke, 1520 Ravine Street, Died
Suddenly Yesterday.

Mother and son, Mrs. Jennie Rourke and Louis Rourke, living at 1520 Ravine street, planned and prepared to have their New Year's dinner together. The dinner was never served,
both dying within twelve hours time,
and without either one being conscious of what had happened to the other. Louis died in the police station at five o'clock last night where he had been taken to await medical attention and late this morning the body of his mother was found cold and lifeless beside a couch in the sitting room of her home, by neighbors who came to announce to her the sad news of her son's death. She had evidently been dead since some time yesterday morning.

Louis, better known as "Biddy"
Rourke, left home yesterday morning for downtown at about nine o'clock
after first calling at the home of Albert Kitzmark to ask the time of day.
He had purchased a duck and other meats for the day before and evidently intended to come home to dinner, which he had to do. Late in the afternoon, while in a bar-room on West Milwaukee street, he became so ill that those in charge of the place feared he would die. The police were notified and brought him to the station.
A physician was summoned at once,
but before he could arrive, Rourke dropped lifeless to the floor.

Not long after her son, Louis, we downtown, Mrs. Rourke went to a neighbor's to borrow a stove cleaner
so that she could make ready to bake the duck her son brought home. When the house was entered this morning the duck had not been prepared, and there was no fire in the house. Mrs.
Rourke, who is nearly eighty years of age, was known to be subject to attacks of heart failure and evidently was taken with an attack just as she was about to lie down on the couch.
Mrs. Albert Kitzmark, who lives across the street, was the first to enter the Rourke home. She found the door unlocked and gazing in saw a heap on the floor which she at once turned home and telephoned the police. District Attorney Duvall, and Chief of Police George Appleby, and Dr. Frank Van Kirk visited the place and made an investigation. Dr. Van Kirk pronounced death to be due from natural causes; old age and exposure.
It was decided that an inquest would not be necessary.

The bodies were both taken to the Kimball morgue. News of the deaths was sent to a daughter of Mrs. Rourke residing in Bloomington, Ill., who wired that she would come to Janesville at once and see to the disposal of the remains of her brother and mother.

DEPOSED RECTOR TO SAIL FOR ENGLAND

Dr. Alfred Barnett Mortimer.

Deposed as a priest and denounced by the dignitaries of his church, Rev. Dr. Alfred C. Mortimer of Philadelphia, who until a few days ago was regarded as one of the most prominent Episcopal ministers of the east, intends shortly to sail for England. Further than that his plans are unknown.

Dr. Mortimer's name was linked with that of a woman in gossip. He was investigated by church authorities and his unbecoming followed.

Strange Names.

Every clergyman can tell tales of the strange names which he has been asked to bestow upon children at the baptismal font; but the place where that sort of thing is rampant is British Guinea. Nannie Bellona, John Pantaloon, and Frank Locust are among Christian names imposed on the offspring of native converts. Worse still are "Whisky Emmanuel" and "Seriatim ad Valorem."

CUT THE HIGH COST OF LIVING

W. H. Chapman, Winnebago, Neb., tells how he did it. "My two children had a very bad cough and doctor's medicines did them no good. I got a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound, and before it was all used the children were free and cured of their cough. I saved a doctor's bill for one 25c bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound." A mean stuffy cold, with hoarse wheezy breathing is just the kind that runs into bronchitis or pneumonia. Don't trifle with such serious conditions but take Foley's Honey and Tar Compound promptly. Contains no opiates. Badger Drug Co.

W. R. Fox, 195 W. Washington St., Noblesville, Ind., says: "After suffering many months with kidney trouble, after trying other remedies and prescriptions, I purchased a box of Foley Kidney Pills which not only did me more good than any other remedies I ever used, but have positively set my kidneys right. Other members of my family have used them with similar results." You will save time and money, and avoid needless pain and suffering by taking Foley Kidney Pills at the first sign of kidney trouble. THE HEAVENS IN JANUARY.

The planet Venus will be conspicuous in the evening skies during the month of January. Venus is readily identified, as she is the brightest of celestial objects after the sun and moon, even Sirius suffering by comparison. The map shows the position of Venus on the evenings of the 14th and the 31st, with reference not to the horizon but to the neighboring stars.

Is Venus habitable? Is she inhabited? These questions are usually merged in the discussion of astronomers. It being taken for granted that life will exist wherever life is possible.

What we know of the physical condition of Venus makes the problem in her case an extremely interesting one.

On Venus conditions of gravity, light, heat, water, atmosphere and composition of matter do not, in all probability, differ enough from these conditions on earth to make the existence of life in some form impossible.

ably less on Venus. A man who weighed 200 pounds on the earth would weigh only 170 pounds if he were transported to the surface of Venus. This lightness of Venus would favor the development of larger life forms. Other things being equal, the smaller the planet, the larger would we expect to find its inhabitants.

Much Atmosphere and Vapor. The atmosphere of Venus is abundant, far more abundant than our own in all probability. Of its constitution we know little except that it contains much watery vapor. This may be due to the higher mean temperature of the planet, resulting from its nearness to the sun. This moisture would favor the growth of ferns and similar vegetation such as flourished here during our carboniferous period. Venus gets almost twice as much solar light and heat as we do. Her axial inclination is somewhat steeper than ours and her orbit is the most nearly circular of any planet's so that there can be no great difference in her seasons, a condition favorable to slow-developing, long-lived animals.

According to the nebular hypothesis Venus is ranked as a younger planet than the earth, and hence the cooling process would not be so far advanced there. Perhaps she is now passing through the equivalent of our carboniferous period and her surface, concealed from our view by her heavy banks of cloud, is a continuous field of steaming swamps where blundering and warping great reptiles of a sort now extinct on earth, but perceptibly larger, because of the slither drag of gravity. Birds, animals and men are to come later in her scheme of things, perhaps by the time when earth has become a dying planet like Mars.

Most Likely Abode of Life. Because of her dense atmosphere and blankets of clouds it may never be possible to determine the presence of life on Venus. But, if it ever is possible to do so, it will be less surprising than in the case of any other planet, because no other planet so much resembles the earth in the qualities essential to the development of life.

It is to the cloudiness of Venus's atmosphere that our sister planet owes her extreme brilliancy. She is so dazzling bright that the telescope distinguishes few of her features. It is impossible to say surely that any observer has ever glimpsed the solid surface of the planet. It is true that the discovery of certain permanent markings has been announced at times, and certain astronomers have been led to the conclusion that Venus turns upon her axis only once in a year, thus keeping the same face turned always to the sun, just as the moon turns always the same face to the earth. Such a planet, half of which was plunged in eternal night and half baked in endless sunlight, would seem uninhabitable, at least by beings resembling man, at least by beings resembling man.

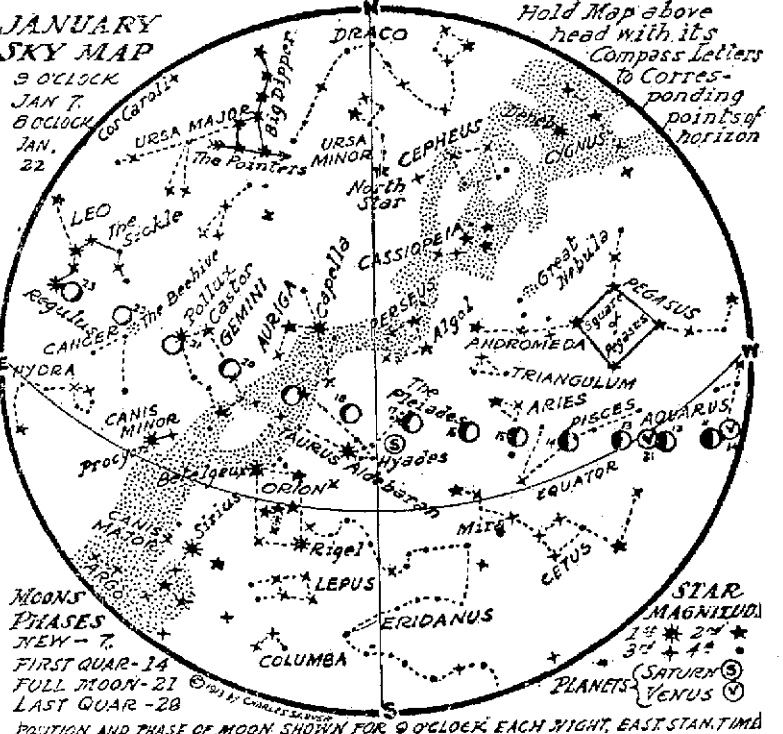

To an intelligent inhabitant of Venus—if such there be—the earth would shine much more brightly than Venus ever can to us. Because of her position between us and the sun, Venus is invisible to us when she is at her nearest. She appears brightest when only about one-quarter of her illuminated surface is exposed to our eyes. The earth, on the other hand, presents her full surface to Venus at the moment of opposition, when the planets most closely approach each other. The result would be similar to that in the case of our own moon, which reflects nine times as much light to us at first or last quarter.

Regulus and the Sickle. The splendid constellation Leo (The Lion) is now almost clear of the eastern horizon, and the well defined figure of The Sickle is fully exposed. The first magnitude star, Regulus (The Chief) is the clear white brilliant star at the end of the handle of The Sickle. Regulus is the heart of the figure of the lion and is often known as Cor Leonis. It is one of the four ancient "Royal stars" which quarter the heavens. Though it adorns the humble emblem of the husbandman, astrologers count it the birth-star of kings.

Though a trifle below the standard of first magnitude brightness, Regulus is in reality a tremendous sun, giving perhaps 1,000 times as much light as our own blinding day-star. But sunlight reaches us in less than nine minutes, whereas a ray from Regulus must travel 160 years before it strikes the earth.

A beautiful third magnitude star just rising in the northeast is Cor Caroli (The Heart of Charles), the naming of which represents the only conspicuously successful attempt to pin the frame of a modern monarch to a star. It was named after Charles I of England, though Halley is said to have attempted to transfer the honor to Charles II, because of a report that the star shone with increased brilliancy on the eve of his coronation.

About seven degrees north, northwest of Cor Caroli is one of the most remarkable colored stars in the northern heavens, La Superba, as named because of its brilliant red rays. It is of the fifth magnitude and so, can be

CHARLES SARVER.

Roman Method of Heating. Like many other Roman houses that have been unearthed in England, one recently brought to light was heated by a system called "hypocaust." The entire basement was one big furnace, from which flues ascended, built into the walls. A wood fire was kept in the basement, the fuel being fed in from an outside annex, through an arch in the wall.

Daily Thought. The benefit we receive must be rendered again line for line, deed for deed, to somebody. Beware of too much good staying in thy hand.—Emerson.

Simple Cure for Indigestion. When suffering from indigestion drink a cup of hot water, and at once lie on the right side. This will promote the passage of the food from the stomach to the intestine.

Another Motor Car Horror. With a look of settled gloom on his face Mr. Jipes was adding up the various amounts that his limousine had cost him for repairs during the six months it had been in his possession.

"What are you doing, Jasper?" inquired his wife.

"Writing my auto biography!" he snapped.

Who Is She? We are willing to admit that chrysanthemums were never more beautiful than now. Even a head of cabbage would be beautiful if a pretty girl wore it for a bouquet.—Philadelphia Telegraph.

WELCOMED NEW YEAR WITH FLOWING BOWL

Four Who Attempted to See Old Year Out Hilariously Finished 1912 in Police Station.

Charles Graham, Ben Dixon, Thomas Conley and James Boyle proposed to spend the partying and welcome the coming year with the rites of Bacchus and general hilarity before taking their New Year's pledges if they had any such praiseworthy intentions, but their pace became so swift that they were placed under arrest before 1913 arrived and spent New Year's day behind the bars of the police station.

To Ed Nelson, however, belongs the distinction of being the first man to be arrested in 1913. Nelson who is a sugar factory employee, was unable to pay a fine of $2 and costs and was sent to jail for five days.

Ben Dixon and James Boyle, both familiar court room habitués, were given the choice of paying a fine of $10 and costs or going to jail for sixteen days. Not having enough money left from their carousal of New Year's eve, they were obliged to accept the alternative. Thomas Conley was sentenced to an eight day term and Charles Graham, a Fulton man, to five days imprisonment.

SIDEWALK KETCHES.

LODGES.

(By Howard L. Rann.)

A LODGE is a voluntary association of practical jokers who come together once a week for the purpose of seeing that the candidate does not go home disappointed. Lodges have been in existence for several hundred years, but a lodge is not a candidate who wasn't perfectly satisfied with the size of his package and the manner in which it was delivered.

Men join lodges for two reasons—first, to get away from home and second, to prove an alibi. It usually takes a trusting wife about two years to discover that lodge meets only one night a week, and after she discovers it her husband is obliged to join everything in sight, out of self defense. The lodge will be a handy thing to have, unless it turns up on the evening of an adjourned session, when it is liable to produce discord in the home.

Lodges are presided over by stern men of good memories who can recite the ritual without becoming tongue-tied in both directions. The officers of a lodge are allowed to wear uniforms and mispronounce some of the best words in the English language. After the candidate has heard the same word jumped on and malleted by every body in uniform from the inner guard to the Supreme High Kick-up, he will think he has strayed into a night school for the great unwashed.

The chief article of furniture in a lodge is the goat. This animal assumes different forms in different lodges, but it has the same easy and graceful style of delivery in each, the same being a cross between a cat-pup and the reverse side of a two by four. The candidate who passes the goat degree with a demanding his money back and calling for the count plaster always takes great delight in steering the goat in the direction of some new and untried brother.

Membership in a live lodge of good fellows is better than accident insurance, as many a man has found at corn husking time. Lodge charity is never tight or inquisitive, and it is ready for use 365 days in the year.

Much Like Sarcasm.

The concealed visitor had talked a long time, and small Janie was duly impressed with the breadth and variety of his knowledge. At last the talker made the sententious statement that one-half the world does not know how the other half lives. "Why don't you teach them?" was the innocent question that made the visitor blush and his other listeners struggle with scarcely suppressed chuckles.

Swatting Back.

Mrs. Hiram Offen—"I'm afraid you won't do. As nearly as I can find out, you have worked in six or seven places during the past year." Miss Brady—"Well, an' how many girls has herself had in the same town? No less, I'm thinkin'."

CHAPTER IX.

Across the River. He dropped his hand upon hers, clasping the clinging fingers tightly. "Yes, we can make it," he answered confidently. "Wait until I make sure what is out there."

He had slight recollection of the stream at this point, although he had crossed it often enough at the known fords, both above and below. Yet these crossings had always been accomplished with a horse under him, and a knowledge of where the trail ran. But he knew the stream, its peculiarities and dangers. It was not the volume of water, nor its depth he feared, for wide as it appeared stretching from bank to bank, he realized its shallow sluggishness. The peril lay in quicksand, or the plunging into some unseen hole, where the sudden swirl of water might pull them under. Alone he would have risked it recklessly, but with her added weight in his arms, he realized how a single false step would be fatal. The farther shore was invisible; he could perceive nothing but the slight gleam of water lapping the sand at his feet, as it flowed slowly, noiselessly past, and beyond, the dim outline of a narrow sand ridge. Even this, however, was encouragement, proving the shallowness of the stream. He turned about, his face so close he could see her eyes.

"We shall have to try it, Miss McDonald; you must permit me to carry you."

"Yes."

"And whatever happens do not scream—just cling tight to me."

"Yes," a little catching in her throat.

"Tell me first, please, just what it is you fear."

"Quicksand principally; it is in all these western rivers, and the two of us together on one pair of feet will water even than he had anticipated. He was wet only to the thighs when he tumbled up on to the low spit of sand, and put the girl down a moment to catch a fresh breath and examine the broader stretch of water ahead. They could see both shores now, that which they had just left, a black, lumping, dim outline. Except for the lapping of the water at their feet, all was dead still. Even the Indian fire had died out, and it was hard to conceive that savages were hidden behind that black veil, and that they two were actually fleeing for their lives. To the girl it was like some dreadful delirium of sleep, but the man felt the full struggle. There was a star well down in the south he chose to guide by, but beyond that he must trust to good fortune. Without a word he lifted her again to his shoulder, and pushed on.

The water ran deeper, shelving off rapidly, until it rose well above his waist, and with sufficient current so that he was compelled to lean against it to maintain balance, scarcely venturing forward a foot at a time. Once he stumbled over some obstruction, barely averting a fall; he felt the swift clutch of her fingers at his throat, the quick adjustment of her body, but her lips gave no utterance of alarm. His groping feet touched the edge of a hole, and he turned, facing the current, tracing his way carefully until he found a passage on solid bottom. A bit of driftwood swirled down out of the night; a water-soaked limb, striking against him before it was even seen, bruised one arm, and then dodged past like a wild thing, leaving a glitter of foam behind. The sand-dunes grew darker, more distinct, the water began to grow shallow, the bottom changing from mud to sand. He slipped and staggered in the uncertain footing, his breath coming in quicker gasps, yet with no cessation of effort. Once he felt the dreaded suck about his ankles, and broke into a reckless run, splashing straight forward, falling at the water's edge, yet not before the girl was resting safely on the soft sand.

Strong as Hamlin was, his muscles strained by strenuous outdoor life, he lay there for a moment utterly helpless, more exhausted from the nervous strain indeed, than the physical exertion.

"I am beginning to breathe easier already," he explained. "Sit down here, Miss McDonald. We are safe enough now in this darkness."

"You are all wet, soaking wet."

"That is nothing; the sand is warm yet from yesterday's sun, and my clothes will dry fast enough. It is beginning to grow light in the east."

The faces of both turned in that direction where appeared the first twilight approach of dawn. Already were visible the dark lines of the opposite shore, across the gleam of water, and beyond appeared the dim outline of the higher bluffs. The slope between river and hill, however, remained in impenetrable darkness. The minds of both fugitives reverted to the same scene—the wrecked stage with its dead passengers within, its savage watchers without. She lifted her head, and the soft light reflected on her face.

"I thank God we are not over there now," she said falteringly.

"Yes," he admitted. "They will be creeping in closer; they will not wait much longer. Hard as I have worked, I can't realize yet that we are out of those toils."

"You did not expect to succeed?"

"No; frankly I did not, all I could do was hope—take the one chance left. The slightest accident meant betrayal. I am ashamed of being so weak just now, but it was the strain. You see," he explained carefully, "I've been scouting through hostile Indian country mostly day and night for nearly a week, and then this thing happened. No matter how iron a man is his nerve goes back on him after a while."

"I know."

"It wasn't myself," he went on doggedly, "but it was the knowledge of having to take care of you. That was what made me worry; that, and knowing a single misstep, the slightest noise, would bring those devils on us, where I couldn't fight, where there was just one thing I could do."

There was silence, her hands pressed to her face, her eyes fixed on him. Then she questioned him soberly.

"You mean, kill me?"

"Sure," he answered simply, without looking around; "I would have had to do it—just as though you were a sister of mine."

Her hands reached out and clasped his, and he glanced aside at her face, seeing it clearly.

"I thought you would," she said, her voice trembling. "I—I was going to ask you, once before I was hurt."

RESULTS THAT REMAIN

Are Appreciated by Janesville People.

Thousands who suffer from back-ache and kidney complaint have tried one remedy after another, finding only temporary benefit. This is discouraging, but there is one kidney medicine that has earned a reputation for lasting results and there is plenty of proof of its merit right here in Janesville.

Here is the testimony of one who used Doan's Kidney Pills years ago, and now makes her testimony even stronger.

Mrs. Joseph Gower, 302 Eastern Ave., Janesville, Wis., says: "The benefit I had from Doan's Kidney Pills when I used them some years ago has been permanent. I willingly confirm my former endorsement of this remedy. I was afflicted with kidney complaint for several weeks and was feeling miserable in every way when a friend advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills. I got a supply at the People's Drug Co. and the contents of three boxes rid me of my trouble. I never fail to advise a trial of Doan's Kidney Pills when I hear anyone complaining of weak kidneys."

tion." He had realized fully the desperate nature of that passage, expecting every step to be engulfed, and the reaction, the knowledge that they had actually attained the shore safely, left him weak as a child, hardly able to comprehend the fact. The girl was upon her feet first, alarmed and solicitous, bending down to touch him with her hand.

"Sergeant, you are not hurt?" she questioned. "Tell me you are not hurt?"

"Oh, no," dragging himself up the bank, yet panting as he endeavored to speak cheerfully. "Only that was a rather hard pull, the last of it, and I am short of breath. I shall be all right in a moment."

There was a sand-dune just beyond, and he seated himself and leaned against it.

"I am beginning to breathe easier already," he explained. "Sit down here, Miss McDonald. We are safe enough now in this darkness."

but—but I couldn't, and somehow I trusted you from the first, when you got in." She hesitated, and then asked: "How did you know I was Molly McDonald? You never asked."

The Sergeant's eyes smiled, turning away from her face to stare out across the river.

"Because I had seen your picture."

"My picture? But you told us you were from Fort Union?"

"Yes; that is my station, only I had been sent to the cantonment on the Cimarron with dispatches. Your father was in command there, and worried half to death about you. He could not leave the post, and the only officer remaining there with him was a disabled cavalry captain. Every man he could trust was out on scouting service. He took a chance on me. Maybe he liked my looks, I don't know; more probably, he judged I wouldn't be a sergeant and entrusted with those dispatches I'd just brought in, if I wasn't considered trustworthy. Anyhow I had barely fallen asleep when the orderly called me, and that was what was wanted—that I ride north and head you off."

"But you were not obliged to go?"

"No; I was not under your father's orders. I doubt if I would have consented if I hadn't been shown your picture. I couldn't very well refuse then."

She sat with hands clasped together, her eyes shadowed by long lashes.

"I should have thought there would have been some soldiers there—your own men."

"There were," dryly, "but the army just now is recruited out of pretty tough material. To be in the ranks is almost a confession of good-for-nothingness. You are an officer's daughter and understand this to be true."

"Yes," she answered doubtfully. "I have been brought up thinking so; only, of course, there are exceptions."

"No doubt, and I hope I am already counted one."

"You know you are. My father trusted you, and so do I."

"I have wondered sometimes," he said musingly, watching her face barely visible in the dawn, "whether those of your class actually considered us as being really human, as anything more valuable than mere food for powder. I came into the regular army at the close of the war from the volunteer service. I was accustomed to discipline and all that, and knew my place. But I never suspected then that a private soldier was considered a dog. Yet that was the first lesson I was compelled to learn. It has been pretty hard sometimes to hold in, for there was a time when I had some social standing and could resent an insult."

She was looking straight at him, surprised at the bitterness in his voice.
